"WE WILL WIN," IS CRY OF RIVAL LEADERS AS CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Mack Figures on a Landslide for Bryan, While Hitchcock Is Sure Taft Will Even Break Into "Solid South."

CHAIRMAN MACK'S PREDICTION.
Rep. Mack has received from the middle West, and even as far west as the coast, indicate a landslide for Bryan. Notwithstanding the Republican "slush fund" turned loose to affect the betting, we will win on Tuesday next with more than three hundred electoral votes. Bryan and Chandler will carry New York by from 50,000 to 60,000, and there will be very little difference in their vote, as they will run about neck and neck.—NORMAN E. MACK, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

CHAIRMAN HITCHCOCK'S CLAIM.
Taft will have 325 electoral votes. The "Solid South" will be broken by Bryan losing Maryland and probably Missouri and Kentucky. Ohio is safe for the Republican party, and with the possible exception of Montana and Nevada we will carry the entire North. Indiana and Nebraska will be found in the Republican column.—FRANK H. HITCHCOCK, Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Democratic State Chairman William J. Conners claims New York for Chandler by 100,000 and 40,000 for Bryan.
Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff claims New York for Bryan by 100,000 for Taft, and from 25,000 to 40,000 for Hughes.

Leader Charles F. Murphy, of Tammany, Hall, privately gives Chandler a plurality of 16,000 in New York County.
A consensus of Democratic opinion at the Hoffman House gives Kings County to Chandler by 20,000, Queens by 10,000 and Richmond by 25,000, which added to the 90,000 estimate for Manhattan and the Bronx, gives Chandler 122,500 at the Westchester County line. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison gives Hughes 60,000 majority in the up-State counties, which would elect Chandler by 62,500.

Herbert Parsons has told friends that President Roosevelt's figures were about right—15,000 plurality for Hughes and from 70,000 to 10,000 for Taft in New York.

The political campaign of 1908 will practically end tonight. Owing to the extreme heat of the State ticket in New York, Gov. Charles E. Hughes on Monday will be brought back to the city for ten final speeches. Elsewhere the oratorical gladiators of both parties will be spraying their red larynx, and setting forth on paper their opinion of the probable results.

How They Figure It.
"How to win for Bryan without New York" has become an exceedingly popular game at the National Democratic Headquarters. It can be worked out a number of ways, but there are mathematicians in from the "stump" who can do the trick in a dozen different computations.

First, you give Bryan the eleven Southern States and Oklahoma, a total of 127 electoral votes. Next add thirty-nine for the border States of Maryland, Missouri and Kentucky, which brings the "Peoples' One" up to 166. Then add the Indiana, Kansas, Ohio, Montana, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Idaho and Nevada for Mr. Bryan, their electoral votes being two more than are required to put him in the White House.

Substituting New Jersey's twelve votes for Wisconsin's thirteen votes still gives Bryan one more than the 217 which he needs. Or combine Connecticut, Rhode Island and Delaware, 14, or Colorado, Rhode Island and Delaware, 15, or Colorado, Rhode Island and Delaware, 12, and substitute any one of these combinations for either Wisconsin or New Jersey.

National Democratic Chairman Mack then calmly adds West Virginia, Utah, California, Illinois, the Dakotas and New York, or ninety-four electoral votes which makes Bryan a winner with a grand total of 332 electoral votes.

It's Different Here.
Over at the National Republican Headquarters, Mr. Mack is dubbed "Grand Master of the Order of Rainbow Chasers." Chairman Hitchcock concedes the eleven Southern States and Oklahoma to Bryan, and then stops. He firmly believes Taft will carry not only Maryland, but Kentucky and Missouri. With the possible exception of Montana and Nevada he routs Bryan in every Northern and Western State.

"There is just a shade of a doubt about Ohio," the Republican National Chairman is understood to be privately admitting. "And possibly Nebraska, Kansas, Indiana, West Virginia, the two Dakotas and Idaho. The rest we simply cannot lose—far more than enough to win for Taft."

As the campaign closes there is a growing feeling about both the Republican and Democratic State headquarters that Chandler will not have any great lead on Bryan as to the number of votes he polls. Opinion is freely expressed that the Socialist vote for Debs will exceed the vote cast for Hagen, whose ticket has ebbed greatly since John D. Rockefeller came out for Taft, and put a final crimp into the professions of the Independence party leaders.

Tammany Leader Murphy will meet with his Executive Committee at 4 o'clock this afternoon. As Chandler when running for Lieutenant-Governor in 1905 got a clear majority in Greater New York of over 137,000, it will be seen that he will have to do better than the 122,500 in Greater New York, as estimated by Tammany, in order to win, unless he can take Hughes's vote up State. He won by the small plurality of 5,574 over Bruce two years ago, and there is no indication that Gov. Hughes has lost the support of 30,000 voters in the Republican districts north of New York County.

New York State looks close, with the odds favoring the Republican candidate.

60,000 MARCH IN BUSINESS MEN'S TAFT PARADE

No Crowds Line the Streets to Augment Their Own Enthusiasm.
WEATHER COOLS ARDOR
Few Cheers For Sherman and Root as They Review the Procession.

Between 50,000 and 60,000 men, merchants, clerks and salesmen, with a small sprinkling of industrial workers, paraded on Broadway and Fifth avenue today in a great Taft and Sherman demonstration. It was a thoroughly business-like campaign showing, admirably handled, but it came far from equalling in impressiveness and size the great Sound Money parade of 1896.

The estimate of the number of men in line is made from the time taken by the paraders in passing the reviewing stand in Madison Square and the period allotted by the managers of the demonstration for its continuance. In company fronts of from twelve to sixteen men the marchers went by the reviewing stand at the rate of $500 an hour. Rear-Admiral Coghlan and the other experts who arranged the details said at the beginning of the parade that it would move for probably seven hours.

The cold, biting, westerly wind had a shrinking effect upon the crowds. Except at the grand stand at Madison Square and at Fifth avenue and Fortieth street, where the parade turned westward to disperse, there was no congregation in the reviewing stands. At the Fifth avenue there was no difficulty in passing along the sidewalks back of the spectators lined along the curb. Few were hardy enough to stand long and look at the men marching by.

Furnish Own Enthusiasm.
The paraders furnished their own enthusiasm. There was none in the crowds. Vice-Presidential Candidate Sherman and Secretary of State Root, the representatives of the Administration, did not get out of the reviewing stand half a dozen cheers. Senator Chandler, M. Depew was frequently recognized and greeted by the marching thousands.

State Chairman Woodruff, muffled up in a big overcoat, was lost in the shuffle, but got some recognition when the Brookyn delegation passed. National Chairman Hitchcock reviewed the parade from a window in his headquarters in the Metropolitan tower.

The arrangements for the parade and the gathering of the marchers were perfect. The various divisions formed in line in the side streets running into Broadway from North street down to the Battery. They fell into line and marched uptown with military precision and according to a time-table that was rigidly adhered to until the time the first band struck up until the Turkish hat rubbers closed up at the end, they comprising the forty-third division.

Some 2,000 marched from Brooklyn over the Brooklyn Bridge in the morning and made a brave showing with flags waving and bands playing. They waited in City Hall Park until their turn came to fall in line and kept warm with the able aid of numerous dispensaries of warm drinks in the neighborhood.

Accident Delays Root.
Secretary Root did not reach the reviewing stand until nearly 1 o'clock. He wrenched his right knee three weeks ago and aggravated the injury this morning by slipping on a marble stairway as he was leaving the Manhattan Hotel. The services of a surgeon were necessary before he could take his place with Mr. Sherman and Cornelius N. Bliss in the place of honor in the reviewing stand.

The parade, in itself, was a spectacle of interest. Most of the men in line were verging on middle age. A majority carried small American flags and wore chrysanthemums or artificial sunflowers pinned to their coats. The younger men carried horns and rattles and made plenty of noise. One division of the wholesale dry goods delegation carried papeterie "big sticks." In the military division there were a few women.

There were two reviewing stands besides the big one in Madison Square. One was erected in front of the Union League Club, in Thirty-ninth street, for the use of members. The other in front of the Republican Club, in Fortieth street. The Union League Club stand was nearly three times too large to accommodate the fur-coated clubmen who utilized it, but the Republican Club stand was well filled.

INDIANS WHIP NAVY IN GREAT KICKING BATTLE

Balenti Kicks Four Goals From Field for Carlisle Eleven.
NAVY SCORES IN SECOND
Great Crowd Witnesses Contest, Which Redskins Won by 16 to 6.

THE LINE-UP.
Naval Academy Position. Carlisle, Balenti (Capt.), Little (Capt.), Northern (Capt.), Waseuka (Capt.), Slaght (Capt.), Center, La Roche (Capt.), Wright (Capt.), Barrer (Capt.), Leighton (Capt.), Little (Capt.), Reifelder (Capt.), R. H. (Capt.), Dalton (Capt.), R. H. (Capt.), Richardson (Capt.), R. H. (Capt.).

(Special to The Evening World.)
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 31.—The big game of the local season was the Carlisle Indian-Navy game here this afternoon, exceeding in interest and attracting a larger crowd even than the Harvard-Navy game of last Saturday. Both teams had their full strength in the line up.

Crowds came in from Baltimore, Washington and other nearby towns and when the game started the stands were packed. The fine weather gave the men plenty of snap. Capt. Waseuka, of Carlisle, won the toss and chose the north goal, with a strong wind at his back. At 2:55 Northern kicked off to Payne, who ran back ten yards to his thirty yard line. Thorpe punted outside to the Navy's forty-yard line. Lange made five yards on the next play Northern punted to two yards on fake kick. Dalton kicked to Balenti, who fumbled, and Wright fell on the ball. Richardson made ten yards in a line play and Lange followed with two more.

With the ball on the 30-yard line Northern tried a play kick but missed by a small margin. Thorpe punted out on the 55-yard line. Thorpe punted out on the 55-yard line. Thorpe punted out on the 55-yard line. Thorpe punted out on the 55-yard line. Thorpe punted out on the 55-yard line.

On a series of fakes the Redskins brought the ball up to their 20-yard line, where being held, the ball was punted to Lange, who was downed on his 35-yard line. Richardson made ten yards and Balenti fumbled and Cobb fell on it on the Indians' 40-yard line.

Nothing was started on the next play. Lange made short kick to Balenti, who was downed on his 25-yard line. Payne made 2 yards on a fake kick. Thorpe punted to Lange, who was downed on his 45-yard line.

Dalton punted out on their 45-yard line. Thorpe, on a fake kick, was thrown by Northern for a loss of six yards. Dalton punted to Balenti, who was downed in his tracks by Reifelder. Here the Indians were penalized fifteen yards for holding.

On a series of fakes the Redskins brought the ball up to their 20-yard line, where being held, the ball was punted to Lange, who was downed on his 35-yard line. Richardson made ten yards and Balenti fumbled and Cobb fell on it on the Indians' 40-yard line.

Two line plunges put the Navy on the stiff defense. Deep back against their own goal. Then within one minute the end of the half Balenti dropped an easy goal kick from about the fifteen-yard line. The half ended, Carlisle, 4; Navy, 0.

Second Half.
Thorpe began the second half by kicking to Reifelder, who was downed in his tracks. Dalton kicked outside on the Navy's 40-yard line. After a series of line plays the Indians got in position for a place kick. Dalton kicked the ball squarely between the posts from the 15 yard line, making it 8 to 0 in favor of Carlisle.

Northern kicked off to Waseuka and Thorpe kicked outside to the Navy's 35-yard line. Dalton made first down on a fake kick. Dalton kicked to Balenti in the center of the field. The Indian made two first downs and then tried a forward pass which did not work, but went back the goal.

The Indians were given the ball on the Navy's five-yard line. No gain on the next play, and being penalized fifteen yards for holding, brought them out to 35-yard line, where Balenti punted the ball back to the Navy's 40-yard line. Dalton kicked to Balenti, who fumbled and Cobb fell on it on the Indians' 40-yard line.

Thorpe kicked back of the goal and the ball was brought out to the twenty-five yard line and kicked. Balenti received the kick. After a series of plays Thorpe kicked to Dalton, who fumbled and Cobb fell on it on the Indians' 40-yard line. Richardson made ten yards and Balenti fumbled and Cobb fell on it on the Indians' 40-yard line.

WAPONOCA WINS BIG HANDICAP AT JAMAICA

Large Crowd at the Races Shivers, But Enjoys Good Sport.
BY VINCENT TREANOR.
(Special to The Evening World.)
JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The two-year-old handicap, the feature of the card here this afternoon, resulted in an easy victory for Waponoca. He followed the alternating pace of Effendi and Sententious to put the turn for home, and then came away easily. Wise Mason closed strong just at the end, but the effort came too late, and Waponoca went past the judges with plenty to spare.

Killereen closed with a rush, but didn't quite get up, and Sententious, her second start of the day by the way, beat him out of the show money. Wise Mason and Killereen were hot goods in the oral market, but the former became a drug at the last minute, while the demand for Killereen increased. Waponoca remained steady at about 12 to 5.

There was a good crowd out for the races, but the weather was rather cool for comfort. The racing was of good quality. Killereen closed with a rush, but didn't quite get up, and Sententious, her second start of the day by the way, beat him out of the show money.

Spellbinding First Winner.
The opening event was won by Lucky Jack McGinnis's Spellbound, and the Brooklyn horseman profited accordingly. Sententious and Golden Legend alternated in making the early pace, and when they got through Spellbound came through with a beautiful stretch run. Jeannette M. ran a winning race, and the latter running Royal Rockstone, the latter running Royal Rockstone, the latter running Royal Rockstone.

Bad News a Winner.
Bad News won the second race, but it was a tight fit between him and Jeannette M. ran a winning race, and the latter running Royal Rockstone, the latter running Royal Rockstone, the latter running Royal Rockstone.

Imitator Breezed Home.
Queen Marguerite set the pace in the third event well into the stretch, where she tired very badly, letting Imitator up to win in a breeze. Fancy ran third all the way, but she too overtook the firing Queen Marguerite and had no trouble beating her for the place money. Bombassa ran a very dispiriting race and can do better. Will probably show his better in his next start.

Notter Lost by Wide Turn.
Notter, on Woodlawn, swung very wide, turning into the stretch in the Rich race, and this feat alone for Royal Onyx, an outsider, getting up on the inside, saved a lot of ground and won 4 to 1. The game was a hard one, but the players were going to everything else. Statesman induced Michael Beck with the lead to the stretch, when he moved up and won shoving, while Michael Beck just as easily beat Connaught Racer for the place.

PIMLICO RESULTS.
First Race—For three-year-olds and up, $500 added; seven furlongs.—Time, 1:45. Nimbus, 117 (Upton), 3 to 1, 4 to 5 and out, won. Bezon, 117 (McCahey), 6 to 5, 1 to 3 and out, second.

Schooner in Bad Plight.
MACHASPORT, Me., Oct. 31.—A schooner stranded on Liberty Island Sunday afternoon from there to-day. No information is available as to the fate of the crew or condition of the vessel. The island is ten miles out to sea and tugs which started to go to her assistance were driven back by a north-east gale.

WEST POINT, Oct. 31.—The Princeton Tiger breezed into the Military Academy this afternoon and brought the breeze with him. There was distinct odor of moth balls as 5,000 New Yorkers poured into the gridiron inclosure, smothered in furs, sweaters and all close hauled. The wind blew from the northwest at a sixty-mile clip, and even the enthusiasm of the half dozen yellmasters failed to let out a reef in the various wraps.

The sun quit the field early and, as a sturdy breeze sent the ball flying for a kick-off, it was bitterly cold. Hundreds of women did everything possible to keep their feet warm, even wrapping them in shawls and papers, but all such efforts failed and they resorted to the last chance. That is, they curled them up and sat upon them. While this gave the rows of spectators a Turkish effect it certainly made more room for those below.

Princeton Not Too Confident.
Princeton's warriors felt little comfort in starting the game, for they had no certainty in a victory. They found the Army mules loaded for bear and confident. The Tigers felt assured that West Point would resort to a kicking game, and were not at all sure of their ends. The Princeton ends are lamentably slow in getting down into the field among the Army team was in excellent shape and the players expected to make a better showing than they did against Yale two weeks ago.

The crowd from New York was the largest of the season and it required six special trains and the steamer Hendrick Hudson to land them among the soldiers. As usual, thousands came without tickets and the best they could see of the game was the dress parade of the cadets. Lieut. Nelly had given out all the seats several days ago, and there are fifty 4,000 disappointed visitors who, falling to get inside the football field, spent the afternoon wandering around the barracks and looking down the mouths of souvenir cannons.

Jerseyman Swears Out War-rant for the "Sure Thing"
Speculator of Richmond Hill.
Capt. Carroll, of the Newark Detective Bureau, announced this afternoon that he had been unable to find Charles P. Washburn, the "sure thing" speculator for whose arrest a warrant had been sworn out in the First Precinct Police Court of Newark by Augustus C. Wiggs, of Lyndhurst, N. J. Wiggs swore that he had given Washburn $100 to speculate for him as he saw fit, and that the man had agreed to triple the amount for him. He added that he went on Wednesday to get his profits, but could not locate Washburn.

Washburn is the speculator who gained much publicity last summer by declaring that he was making more than 100 per cent. per month for his customers by speculating in Wall Street. At that time many of the residents of Richmond Hill, L. I., were his customers, giving him sums of from $5 up to $10,000. Washburn made his office with the brokerage firm of F. G. Stone & Co., Broad and Market streets, Newark, going there each day from his home in Richmond Hill.

Stone & Co. the police stated, had not been around for two days. Washburn rented a room in New Street, Newark, which he occupied when he did not go home to Richmond Hill. He has not been there for five days, and the detectives reported.

TAMMANY RALLY TO-NIGHT.
The east side Democrats will wind up the campaign to-night by a monster celebration in and around Houston street square, between Norfolk and Suffolk streets. All the Tammany leaders below Fourteenth street will be present. Nathan Strauss will preside, and among the speakers will be Congressman Shuler and other prominent east side Tammanites. There will be a display of fireworks during the meeting.

The Tigers gained ten yards on the first down, but were caught off side and penalized fifteen yards. Tibbott made five yards around right end. McCrohan tried centre, but failed to gain an inch, and Read was forced to kick. Dean got the ball on the Army's 35-yard line and, on a quarter back run, Kern gained 40 yards. A fake kick failed and Kira
